

1 favorable to Plaintiff. See Mudpie, Inc. v. Travelers Cas. Ins. Co. of Am., 15 F.4th 885,
2 889 (9th Cir. 2021).

3 Plaintiff BCS. Turning to those allegations, Plaintiff Breaking Code Silence
4 (“BCS”) “is a nonprofit public benefit corporation incorporated by survivors of 5 institutional child abuse and activists.” (Second Am. Compl. (“SAC”) ¶ 12, ECF No. 19.)
6 “The mission of BCS is to raise awareness of the problems in the troubled teen industry
7 and the need for reform.” (Id.)

8 “One of the volunteers of BCS started branding BREAKING CODE SILENCE in 9 October of 2010 with his books, blogs, posts, and speaking engagements aimed at helping 10 survivors of institutional child abuse.” (SAC ¶ 14.) This branding continued to be used in 11 the community, including for websites and articles. (Id.) BCS claims “[t]hese rights have 12 been assigned to BCS,” but does not provide any details concerning the assignment, such 13 as who assigned the rights. (Id.)

14 “In 2019, a group of survivors of troubled teen residential facilities joined together 15 to formalize BCS as an organization.” (SAC ¶ 16.) The group started with informal 16 meetings and then established a further presence through a website, online community, 17 social media accounts, email account, and webhosting account. (Id. ¶¶ 15–16.) The 18 website and social media account handles all include part or all of the phrase
19 “breakingcodesilence.” (See id. ¶ 16 (listing various accounts).)

20 “The BCS group started applying for grants by October 15, 2020,” including from 21 the Conrad N. Hilton Foundation. (FAC ¶¶ 17–18.) On March 22, 2021, BCS was 22 incorporated with the California Secretary of State. (Id. ¶ 19.)

23 “BCS uses the trademarks BREAKING CODE SILENCE, BCS, and 24 #breakingcodesilence to brand its services, mission, and publications.” (SAC ¶ 21.) It has 25 several trademark applications pending with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office
26 (“USPTO”). (Id.)

27 Defendants’ Involvement. BCS alleges Chelsea Papciak (also known as Chelsea 28 Filer), Jennifer Walker, Jenna Bulis, and Martha Thompson “were involved with BCS from

1 2019 through early 2021.” (SAC ¶ 24.) In early 2021, “these Defendants publicly
2 separated themselves from BCS and no longer actively participate in the organization.”
3 (Id.) However, these Defendants are using the BREAKING CODE SILENCE mark
4 without Plaintiff BCS’s permission, including through Defendants Filer and Bulis
5 representing themselves as officers at Breaking Code Silence. (Id. ¶¶ 25–27.)

6 In addition, “Defendants have taken many of Plaintiff’s social media and email 7 accounts and are holding them hostage and will not return them to Plaintiff despite 8 numerous requests.” (SAC ¶ 28.) In April 2021, Defendants Bulis and Filer “filed a
9 registration for a Florida Profit Corporation by the name of BREAKINGCODESILENCE
10 INC.”—which is the final named Defendant. (Id. ¶ 42.) “This was done without the 11 authorization of BCS, and after publicly falsely accusing BCS (a nonprofit) of attempting 12 to profit from the troubled teen survivor movement.” (Id.) Defendants also “continue to 13 make public posts on social media alleging that Plaintiff is committing theft, bullying, and 14 threatening survivors,” which “are causing the public to question Plaintiff’s integrity.” (Id.
15 ¶ 40.)

16 Based on these allegations, BCS brings nine claims, including trademark
17 infringement, unfair competition under the Lanham Act, conversion, and defamation.
18 (SAC ¶¶ 45–107.)¹ Some claims involve all Defendants; others do not. Defendant Walker
19 moves to dismiss the claims against her under Rule 12(b)(6). (Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss (“1st 20 MTD”), ECF No. 35.) Defendants Filer, Walker, Bulis, Thompson, and 21 BreakingCodeSilence, Inc. likewise move to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6). (Defs.’ Mot. to 22 Dismiss (“2nd MTD”), ECF No. 36.)

26
27
28
¹ There was a dispute between the parties over whether the Second Amended Complaint is the operative pleading. The Court found it is. (ECF No. 34 (applying Rule 15(a)(2).) Consequently, Defendants Filer, Walker, Bulis, Thompson, and BreakingCodeSilence, Inc.’s request to strike the Second Amended Complaint is not well taken. (2nd MTD 9:12–10:19.)

LEGAL STANDARD

2 A motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6) tests the legal sufficiency of the claims
3 asserted in the complaint. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732
4 (9th Cir. 2001). The court must accept all factual allegations pleaded in the complaint as 5 true and must construe them and draw all reasonable inferences from them in favor of the 6 non-moving party. Cahill v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co., 80 F.3d 336, 337–38 (9th Cir. 1996).
7 Yet, the court does not have to accept “legal conclusions” as true. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556
8 U.S. 662, 678 (2009).

9 To avoid a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal, a complaint need not contain detailed factual 10 allegations; rather, it must plead “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on 11 its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). “A claim has facial 12 plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the 13 reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Ashcroft v.
14 Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556). “Where a complaint 15 pleads facts that are ‘merely consistent with’ a defendant’s liability, it ‘stops short of the 16 line between possibility and plausibility of entitlement to relief.’” Id. (quoting Twombly, 17 550 U.S. at 557).

OBJECTIONS

19 BCS objects to Defendants’ Requests for Judicial Notice and reliance on other 20 extrinsic evidence in their Oppositions. (ECF Nos. 39, 40.) Defendants ask the Court to 21 take judicial notice of: (1) a social media post; and (2) a printout from the USPTO that lists
22 Defendant Filer as one of the original applicants for the BREAKING CODE SILENCE
23 mark. (ECF No. 35-3.) In addition, Defendants’ Oppositions rely on declarations from 24 Chelsea Filer and Josh Scarpuzzi, which address BCS’s factual allegations and include
25 various exhibits. (ECF Nos. 36-3; 36-4; see also 1st MTD 2:25–4:24; 2nd MTD 6:1–8:1.)

26 At the Rule 12(b)(6) stage, the court may not consider extrinsic matters outside the 27 pleadings without converting the motion to dismiss to a motion for summary 28

1 judgment. Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 250 F.3d 668, 688 (9th Cir. 2001). Exceptions to 2 this limitation include matters subject to judicial notice. Id.

3 Judicial Notice. Under Federal Rule of Evidence 201(b), the court may judicially
4 notice a fact that “can be accurately and readily determined from sources whose accuracy 5 cannot reasonably be questioned.” Fed. R. Evid. 201(b). Where a party seeks judicial 6 notice of a document, the Rule 201(b) inquiry is two-fold. First, the court must consider 7 whether the document is from “a source[] whose accuracy cannot reasonably be 8 questioned.” Khoja v. Orexigen Therapeutics, Inc., 899 F.3d 988, 999 (9th Cir. 2018).
9 Second, the court must “consider—and identify—which fact or facts it is noticing from”
10 the document. Id. “Just because the document itself is susceptible to judicial notice does 11 not mean that every assertion of fact within that document is judicially noticeable for its 12 truth.” Id.

13 A social media post satisfies neither step of the inquiry under Rule 201(b). Hence,
14 the Court denies that request for judicial notice. As for the USPTO item, the Court agrees 15 that the USPTO is a source whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned. Pinterest
16 Inc. v. Pintrips Inc., 15 F. Supp. 3d 992, 997 (N.D. Cal. 2014) (noting “USPTO records 17 may be subject to judicial notice”). Defendants rely on the USPTO item to attempt to 18 conclusively establish that all of the individuals on a pending trademark application are 19 joint owners of the disputed trademark. (See 1st MTD 3:22–24; 2nd MTD 6:1–5.) That 20 disputed fact is not subject to judicial notice from the USPTO registry. See Khoja, 899
21 F.3d at 999–1002 (explaining the limitations of judicial notice); see also, e.g., Pinterest, 22 15 F. Supp. 3d at 997 (“[W]hile the USPTO records may be subject to judicial notice, they 23 are noticeable only for the limited purpose of demonstrating that the filings and actions
24 described therein occurred on certain dates.”). Therefore, the Court denies Defendants’
25 request for judicial notice of the USPTO registry.²

26
27 ² Defendants also ask the Court to take judicial notice of BCS’s California Secretary of State 28 filings. (ECF Nos. 35-3; 36-5.) BCS does not object to this request. (See ECF Nos. 39, 40.) Judicial notice of these filings is appropriate for the limited purpose of establishing when BCS was incorporated.

1 market.” Hanginout, Inc. v. Google, Inc., 54 F. Supp. 3d 1109, 1118 (S.D. Cal. 2014).
2 “A fundamental principle of trademark law is first in time equals first in right.” Grupo
3 Gigante SA De CV v. Dallo & Co., 391 F.3d 1088, 1093 (9th Cir. 2004). “One who first 4 uses a distinct mark in commerce thus acquires rights to that mark.” B & B Hardware, Inc.
5 v. Hargis Indus., Inc., 575 U.S. 138, 142 (2015); accord Derringer v. Plate, 29 Cal. 292,
6 294–95 (1865) (providing, at common law, the right to a trademark accrues from adoption
7 and use). “The first to use a mark is deemed the ‘senior’ user and has the right to enjoin
8 ‘junior’ users from using confusingly similar marks in the same industry and market or 9 within the senior user’s natural zone of expansion.” Brookfield Commc’ns, Inc. v. W. Coast
10 Ent. Corp., 174 F.3d 1036, 1047 (9th Cir. 1999).

11 The Complaint alleges that in 2010—before BCS existed—a volunteer started using 12 the BREAKING CODE SILENCE mark “with his books, blogs, posts, and speaking 13 engagements aimed at helping survivors of institutional child abuse.” (SAC ¶¶ 12, 16, 19.)
14 At common law, this individual would be the owner of the mark who has the right to enjoin 15 junior users. See, e.g., Sengoku Works Ltd. v. RMC Int’l, Ltd., 96 F.3d 1217, 1219 (9th Cir.
16 1996) (“To acquire ownership of a trademark it is not enough to have invented the mark 17 first or even to have registered it first; the party claiming ownership must have been the 18 first to actually use the mark in the sale of goods or services.”). BCS, of course, is the 19 named Plaintiff—not this unnamed individual.

20 BCS further alleges that the mark “was used in the community from 2010 through 21 the present for books, posts, speaking engagements, website sand articles.” (SAC ¶ 14.)
22 Finally, BCS adds: “These rights have been assigned to BCS.” (Id.)

23 Preliminarily, BCS does not plausibly allege that it is the owner of the mark through 24 its own use. It does not claim to be the first one to commercially use the mark in the 25 relevant market. As mentioned, BCS alleges an individual first used the mark in 2010 for 26 “books, blogs, posts, and speaking engagements,” but BCS was not incorporated until 27 2021. (SAC ¶¶ 14, 19.) And although an individual “volunteer of BCS” may have rights 28 to the mark, BCS is a separate entity. “Ordinarily, a corporation is regarded as a legal

1 entity separate and distinct from its stockholders, officers and directors.” Communist Party
2 v. 522 Valencia, Inc., 35 Cal. App. 4th 980, 993 (1995); see also City of Bakersfield v. W.
3 Park Home Owners Assn. & Friends, 4 Cal. App. 5th 1199, 1211 (2016) (“However, the 4 Corporation was formed as a separate legal entity, a public benefit corporation.”);
5 2 McCarthy on Trademarks and Unfair Competition § 16:36 (5th ed. 2021) (distinguishing 6 between corporate and individual ownership of a mark). Hence, additional facts are needed
7 to show BCS owns the unregistered mark.

8 To that end, BCS alleges the common law trademark rights stemming from 2010
9 “have been assigned to BCS.” (SAC ¶ 14.) Defendants argue this assignment allegation
10 is a legal conclusion that is insufficient under Rule 12(b)(6). (1st MTD 6:19–7:1; 2nd
11 MTD 12:21–13:7.) See Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 (explaining the court does not have to accept 12 “legal conclusions” as true). The Court agrees. The term “assignment” has a specific legal 13 meaning, especially in the trademark context. See, e.g., Fed. Treasury Enter.
14 Sojuzplodoimport v. SPI Spirits Ltd., 726 F.3d 62, 75 (2d Cir. 2013) (“[A]n assignment “is 15 an outright sale of all rights in that mark.” (quoting 3 McCarthy on Trademarks and Unfair 16 Competition § 18:1 (4th ed. 2012))). The Complaint does not allege who transferred the 17 rights to BCS, the date of the assignment, the scope of the assignment, or any other 18 information. (SAC ¶ 14.) Without any supporting factual allegations, BCS does not 19 plausibly allege it owns the unregistered mark through an assignment, which would give it 20 the right to preclude Defendants’ alleged junior use.

21 Moreover, the Court will not wade into any other theories of trademark ownership
22 or standing to sue for infringement, as none were adequately developed in BCS’s 23 Oppositions. BCS must connect the dots for the Court. Indeed, BCS asks for leave to 24 amend, stating it can provide more information, including “the documents and additional 25 details to support the assignment.” (Opp’n to 1st MTD 10:25–11:7; Opp’n to 2nd MTD
26 10:10–20.) Consequently, the Court dismisses the trademark-related federal claims (SAC
27 ¶¶ 45–70) with leave to amend. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 15 (a)(2) (“The court should freely 28 give leave when justice so requires.”).

Having dismissed BCS’s federal claims, the Court—at this time—declines to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over BCS’s assortment of state law claims. 28 U.S.C. § 1367 (c)(3).³ If BCS files an amended complaint, Defendants can renew their arguments concerning these claims.

CONCLUSION

In light of the foregoing, the Court GRANTS Defendants’ Motions to Dismiss (ECF Nos. 35, 36). Specifically, the Court dismisses BCS’s first, second, third, and fourth claims (SAC ¶¶ 45–70) with leave to amend. The Court declines to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over the remaining state law claims and dismisses them without prejudice. If BCS chooses to file a Third Amended Complaint, it must be filed no later than March 4, 2022.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DATED: February 11, 2022

Hon. Cynthia Bashant
United States District Judge

³ The Court only has supplemental jurisdiction over these state law claims because there is not complete diversity. (See SAC ¶ 6.) See Caterpillar Inc. v. Lewis, 519 U.S. 61, 68 (1996).
